

The Emergency Border Control Resolution Budget

Step One in the "218 for DOGE" Strategy

In January, the House Freedom Caucus put forward a comprehensive strategy called the "218 for DOGE" plan to enact President Trump's America First agenda and restore pre-COVID spending levels via reconciliation and appropriations.

The first step is to pass a rapid initial reconciliation package to secure the border, fund the military, reverse and slash major Biden programs, and raise the debt ceiling. This is what the Emergency Border Control Resolution budget sets the stage to do. It's time for action.

This budget resolution would instruct committees in the House to report:

$200 billion in new funding intended for...

- $100 billion for border security.
- $100 billion for defense and national security.

$486.3 billion in spending cuts intended to come from...

- $246.8 billion in ending Biden's unconstitutional student loan bailout.
- $105 billion in restoring Clinton-era work requirements on welfare programs to end Democrats' cycle of poverty and end the chronic labor shortage by encouraging work for those who can work.
- $100 billion in reversing Biden's radical "Green New Scam" electric vehicle mandates.
- $24.5 billion in implementing a tax on remittance payments sent overseas.
- $10 billion in right-sizing immigration fees on asylum applicants, visa overstays, etc.

$286.3 billion in net deficit reduction

$4 trillion debt ceiling increase...

- Accompanied by the above and future spending reductions, this will ensure stability in financial markets for more than two years – if not significantly longer.
- Importantly, this can be accomplished by Republican votes to ensure that Congressional Democrats cannot leverage a debt crisis to stop President Trump's agenda.

The HFC "218 for DOGE" strategy, launched by the Emergency Border Control Resolution budget, will successfully implement the America First agenda with Republican votes and begin to reverse the out-of-control federal spending that has brought us to a brink of a financial crisis with more than $36 trillion in national debt.

Furthermore, it provides time to craft a second package with tax relief, policies to unleash American energy production and dramatically slash overregulation, and initiatives to "drain the swamp" and end the weaponization of the bureaucracy against the American People – with sufficient spending cuts to ensure it is demonstrably deficit neutral.
