Wife: Raquel Lee Frindt

Exhibit 400A, 1ff: "Acting Assistant Special Agent in Charge (AASAC) Giulio Arseni [was] present at the outset of the interview [of Tony Bobulinski on 10/23/2020]. ... AASAC Arseni left the interview room after making introductions to the interviewing agents."

Supervisory Intelligence Analyst (SIA)
FBI Headquarters
Brian James Auten
DOB: 02/24/1969
brian.auten@ic.fbi.gov
Wife: Linda Auten
(née Gibbs)
Burke, VA 22015

According to his former and current colleagues who have made protected disclosures as whistleblowers to U.S. senators, Auten authored a so-called "assessment" in August 2020 which cast doubt on the provenance of material related to—and data contained on—the Biden Laptop. Auten's ridiculous "assessment" was then utilized by his colleague as a justification to halt investigative activity, according to whistleblowers.

Auten also played a central role in the Russian collusion delusion and bogus "Stevie dossier." In other words, a single analyst has stood in the middle of two of the most consequential FBI scandals of the 21st century.

Deputy Assistant Director (Retired)
Counterintelligence Division
FBI Headquarters
Bradley "Brad" Scott Benavides
DOB: 03/03/1970
browns@ci.echecery.org
Wife: Caitly Lynn Beesley Benavides
(née Hagey)
359 Commonwealth Way
Aiken, SC 29801

Benavides provided false information to U.S. senators about the Bidens and their foreign business dealings. Specifically, Benavides (who "retired"—with his pension, of course—shortly after the exposure of his role in the fiasco and immediately received an executive position with Amazon) briefed a U.S. Senate committee on 08/06/2020 about how legitimate inquiries into the Bidens' foreign business dealings were enabling a "Russian disinformation campaign."

Naturally, the briefing's details were leaked to the Washington Post, which is owned by Jeff Bezos, the founder of Benavides' next employer.

Executive Assistant Director (Retired)
National Security Branch
FBI Headquarters
John Anthony Brown
DOB: 03/03/1970
jbrown@ci.echecery.org
Wife: Kimie Elizabeth Brown
(née Dearth)
5700 E. State Hwy 33
Summerville, IL 62491

According to testimony he gave to congressional investigators on 09/28/2023, Benavides said that Brown posed a question to the Orwellian-theme "Foreign Influence Task Force" (FITF) about potential involvement by the Russian government in the Biden Laptop; Brown asked: "If there is a laptop purported to be attributed to Hunter Biden, is it possible that a foreign adversary (like the Russians) could be using that as a way to insert into the U.S. political system false information, bad information, corrupted information, all kinds of things that could be on the laptop—is it possible that the Russians are capable of doing this?" Hilariously (and tragically) Benavides responded to Brown's question in the affirmative.

Chan was the ringleader of—and direct participant in—meetings, organized by the FITF, between social media companies and feds during which the Biden Laptop was discussed.

Additionally, in his dissertation at the Naval Postgraduate School entitled "Fighting Bears and Trolls: An Analysis of Social Media Companies and U.S. Government Efforts to Combat Russian Influence Campaigns During the 2020 U.S. Elections," Chan wrote that "public service announcements that are informed by media literacy experts" are necessary to protect the American citizenry from the "Russian government's" efforts to propagate disinformation in the American populace.

Dehmow was a direct participant in meetings, organized by the FITF (a task force Dehmow apparently supervised), between social media companies and feds during which the Biden Laptop was discussed.

Mac Isaac on 12/20/2020: "Agent Mike [Dzielak] instructed me that, moving forward, we should only communicate through text message, no email. He also said that if somebody came into the shop looking for the laptop, I was to contact them [the FBI] immediately and stall them for 24 hours and [FBI] agents would return the equipment."

Gordon, 33-34: "I was upset when I learned [that the Biden transition team was notified]. ... I felt it was people that did not need to know about our intent. ... while we got together on that morning, I was notified by my assistant special agent in charge that we would not even be allowed to approach the house; that the plan, as told to us, was that my information would be given to the Secret Service ... with the notification that we would like to talk to Hunter Biden; and that I was not to go near the house and to stand by. ... it was frustrating[.]"

Thibault was the tip of the spear in the Washington, DC Field Office handling the Biden Laptop operation; according to multiple former colleagues and subordinates, Thibault—who shared numerous vile and derogatory messages on social media about his then-boss, President Trump—ordered investigative activity to cease surrounding the Biden Laptop, which—as we now know—had been in the FBI's possession since December 2019. At the same time Tyson penned her letter, she was (according to the DOJ OIG report) which "disrupted" the workplace.] A close ally of FBI Director Christopher Wray, Tyson stayed at the Bureau for nearly an entire year after the OIG report was released.
