I first sensed the structure from the top and I could feel a roundness and squareness associated with the structure. I also sensed a pointing out of the structure.

I sensed a large patio-like area and I could see people walking around the opened area and looking at art objects. The objects were of men's faces with long hair.

I also sensed a parking garage underneath the structure and I sensed this structure was in a city. I sensed a gate and water nearby. I sensed there was an independent stand saying the name of building and the building was named for a man.

I sensed there were many entrances to the structure. Upon entering, I sensed a mezzanine area with large pieces of glass. I sensed guards - dressed in navy blue guarding all entrances of the structure. The first area - I sensed a window - a double window. I sensed a working table with young, intelligent men working. I sense few furniture pieces and a low railing. I sensed something for the man made - pumping music.

They were "soft". Intelligent but and problem solvers
but not decision makers.
They were experts and could conceptualize but not the decision makers.
They were young and wore white shirts. They were looking at papers and photographs.

And area - Men older,
more forceful. Judging.
Bucks. I kept connecting them with secretive, Underground. Deed.
Saying one thing - Doing another. I kept seeing a red rose with them.
I kept seeing they dressed very conservative but I kept seeing killings and brutality.
In their younger days,
they were quite liberal.

I kept in seeing
images of war in my head.
