E. SESSION SUMMARY

The situation in Somalia will be seen in the next week or so as increasingly dim. U.S. military involvement will be required as long as the clans are presantly at war. In accordance with the United Nations, other countries will provide some troops over time for the cause. More people will die as a result of the actions and upheaval in Somalia. An increased amount of american taxpayers money will be spent on intervention which will give rise to resistance in this effort even within the U.S. The Somalian situation is not to be just an American involvement and will have to be adhered to by other countries as proposed by the United There will be some further blockage of food sent to Nations. Somalia despite the fact that more troops will be available to insure the delivery of supplies. Humanitarian efforts will be considered effective given time.
