ILLUMINATI SECRET SYMBOLS REVEALED

By the end of this guide you will understand what the following hand symbols really mean:

What these characters represent:

And much more will end up being revealed to you along this journey. This requires us to take a look at some of the insight found in ancient philosophies that attempted to help us create our own answers to questions like: "What is the very nature of god?", "Why are we here in this world?" and "What is the extent of the power of our mind?"

If you like learning powerful messages that you can begin applying to your life right away, then you'll find this reading to be particularly enjoyable... especially once you get to the end, there's a very special message waiting for you to hear there.

Now before we can continue, let's dare to ask some questions that cause a lot of people to get stuck...

Preface

1. If the Illuminati is such a secret society, why does it seem like their symbols are everywhere and so easy to find?

Answer: Double meanings allow for these symbols to become widespread, while remaining secret. It's the age old difference between esoteric knowledge (an internal knowing / real meaning) and exoteric knowledge (knowing something outside of yourself / false meaning). To go a step further, all "Illuminati" symbolism merely reflects different aspects of the human psyche (esoteric). You see, it's much easier to explain a concept/idea to someone by using a metaphor that the other person is more familiar with. They are then able to comprehend the information much easier when it's associated with a reflective tangible (exoteric). It's the difference between saying the ancients worshiped the rising sun because it allowed their crops to grow, and saying the ancients respected the path towards enlightenment. In ancient Egypt, the "high priests" (teachers) always created two meanings for the same symbol... one for the public that would be easily understood and one for the few that proved themselves worthy of knowing. This was to keep certain things safe from people that weren't yet ready to accept, or weren't responsible enough to know the truth. If you want to be able to figure out the difference between the two meanings, this quote from a Buddha explicitly explains how one can tell the difference between the truth and a lie...

Take a moment to consider these words.

2. Where's the proof that it's even being coordinated?

Answer: As explained above, that's up to you. Coincidence can only go so far, until one has to come to the realization that something is being coordinated. For everyone that is going to change, and must depend on your own reason and intuition. It's not up for anyone, even me, to determine that for you.

And finally...

3. If it is in fact coordinated for this imagery to be repeatedly used... what is "their" motivation?

Answer: This is a tricky one to answer, but this is how I was able to make sense of this.

"The truth is often far more unbelievable than fantasy." - "To get to the bottom of things, you must go several layers deep asking the question: Why?"

I have to compare this to another common truth that's found in the Entertainment Industry to better understand the "why" behind it all. In the case of most music you find on the radio today (and many movies), the value system that is being portrayed is completely messed up. Materialism and instant gratification is praised above a family life and unconditional love. That's not to say that there aren't people that make music with excellent values in mind, but they just won't ever be accepted into the "mainstream."

Why is that?

We often hear that if you really want to make it "big" you then have to "sell your soul to the devil," or in other words, change your value system to the mainstream's belief. If that's the case, then it would imply that there's a sort of "brainwashing" that's being carried out on a massive scale to change the values of everyone that's being exposed to it.

But why?

To understand this, we have to get into the minds of those people who are in power here, pulling the strings from behind the curtain. Let's say you were in charge of a "big business." Why would you want people to believe such skewed values? It's most likely because your own values have become skewed. We often hear how easily power can corrupt one's values, causing them to endlessly seek more of it... and that's because:

Well said, Eckhart Tolle. As humans, all we want is to feel happy, loved, and fulfilled in life. We all seek validation from others to continue to motivate us in our actions, and when you're stuck in a system that praises you for all the wrong reasons, you will find it very hard to change. Then, seeking power over others and valuing material things will lead anyone of us to do exactly what we see "big businesses" do today. However, if you really study these people you will find that none of them are truly happy and are endlessly trying to fill that void in their life by creating more... more money, more status, more power... MORE. This of course is the definition of insanity, and it's unfortunate that we never really learn from a mistake the first, second, or even third time... not until we're given our last chance do we see change take place. These people will never become truly happy until they change their beliefs, and thus their actions will follow. Consider this quote from an ancient Chinese philosopher:

"MASTERING OTHERS IS STRENGTH.
MASTERING YOURSELF IS TRUE POWER."
— LAO TZU

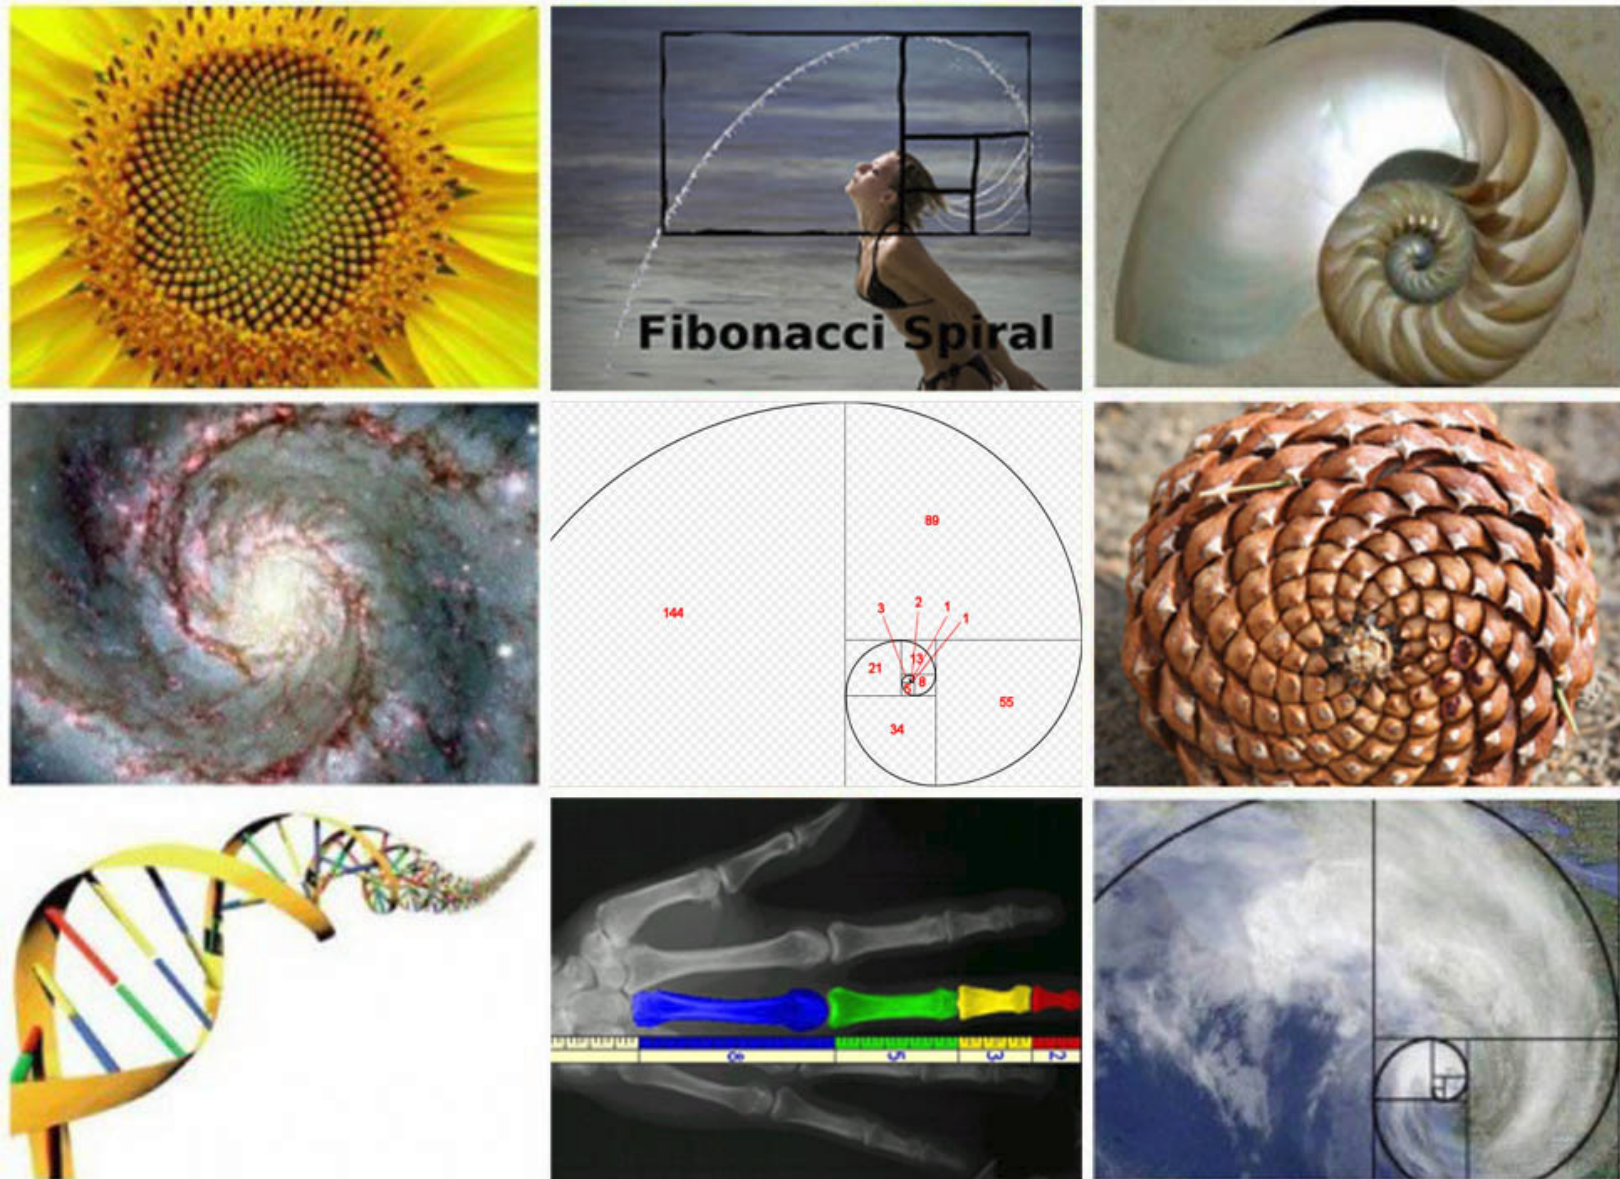

At the other end of this we have the public, that's us... and we fall victim to perpetuate this system of false beliefs. Without us, this false belief system would fall apart on its head. But, as people try to create happiness in their lives with cars, houses, and job titles, they often find themselves feeling more unfulfilled and empty than they did before. Although countless people have been down this road, it's again unfortunate that most of us will try to solve a problem with the very thing that caused it. That's because our ego makes it very hard to accept that we were wrong in our own very beliefs, so we think we just have to believe more and get more fortune, fame, and power to create a fulfilled life like the people at the top of the ladder to prove ourselves correct. You can see now how this becomes a viscous, never-ending cycle of dis-empowered people... no matter where you stand on this ladder. In the meantime we're all too distracted and scared to stop and question if we were flawed from the very beginning in what we perceived was to be important.

So with this in mind, we can see how this would create a society that is ideal to consume without ever questioning... one that is docile, obedient and submissive... "fat and dumb"... that worries about the wrong things like their image, what other people are going to think about them, instead of focusing on what their dreams and heart tells them to do. We've become disconnected with our intuition. This all coincides with the goal of chemicals placed in our food, and the so many other things that seem to be prevalent in today's society to weaken us.

So the same thing might be said about why "they" would want to coordinate so many symbols to be flashed at us, almost as another tool that can be used to dis-empower us. Although it may seem subtle, it's extremely powerful neuro linguistic programming, which manipulates our behavior. You see most people already want to believe that they are powerless, it is the most effective excuse for inaction there is... after all, if we never try to do something we never have to fear or worry about failing or looking bad. Or even worst, most of the time we would prefer someone else does something about it, while we passively stand by and watch. By coordinating symbols in the Entertainment Industry, it gives off the notion that "they" are well-coordinated and well-organized in everything it is that they do. Hence very powerful, and a reason why we could never stand a chance against the values that they impose on us on a daily basis, since they seem so united and strong. Meanwhile, your only just one person right... What can you really do?

Hopefully that has got you questioning some things. This is going to be very helpful as we move forward now.

What makes a good story? Of course, it's how it's told. And this one happens to be deeply rooted in numbers, so it would only make sense to tell this story in a Fibonacci sequence to see how it's all connected at the end. (if you couldn't tell, math was also my favorite subject back in school)

“Where there is matter, there is geometry.”
~ Johannes Kepler

As a quick overview: the Fibonacci sequence forms a spiral, which governs how all life grows proportionately... the older or further along the sequence one gets, the closer towards perfection or the golden number / Phi (1.618) one gets to. Infinitely getting closer towards phi, but never touching it exactly... Infinitely leavening open room for more improvement. Trust your intuition to guide this growth.
